RUNOVER BY TROLLEY; DIES IN HOSPITAL

Hannan Winnett, Widely Known Farmer, Succumbs to Shock And Loss of Blood at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Yesterday

BOTH FEET WERE SEVERED

Thought He Had Fallen Asleep On Car Tracks And Failed to Hear Approach of Trolley Car Darkness And Fog Prevents Motorman From Seeing Him

Both feet and ankles severed at an early hour yesterday morning when run over by a street car on the W. M. B. V. and F. C. Street Railway Company, Hannan Winnett, aged about 63 years, widely known farmer of this vicinity, succumbed to shock and loss of blood at 11:50 yesterday morning in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, where he was rushed immediately after the accident.

Winnett, whom it is said, had been drinking, had fallen asleep with his feet over the railway track at a point directly across the river between Wireton and Belle Vernon, and on account of the darkness and fog at that time of the morning, John B. Campbell, of Fallowfield avenue, motorman on the first car of the route, failed to see the sleeping man until it was too late to stop the car. The injured man was placed on the street car, which reversed its course, bringing him to the local hospital where he died a few hours later.

Winnett has lived in this locality practically all his life and was very well known by both young and old. He made his home among the farmers working on the various farms to earn his living. He left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lot Winnett, distant relatives, of Fallowfield township, where he last made his home, Friday, and was visiting in Charleroi. It is thought that he had been in Belle Vernon and had missed the last car home Saturday night.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Lyde Husher of Charleroi, and Mrs. Allen Bailey of East Pike Run township, and two brothers, Labin Winnett of Tarentum, and Robert Winnett of Pittsburgh.

Harrisburg, Sept. 22—Starting next week, the State Health Department will mail to the parents of every new born child in Pennsylvania an official notice stating that the birth has been registered at Harrisburg. The mailing of the notices—which are in effect birth certificates—marks the opening of a new health service to the people of the state.

Each year, according to Dr. Batt, there are 230,000 children born in Pennsylvania or an average of approximately 640 a day. Oftentimes in the past, attending physician neglected to send a notice of the birth

DINNER FOR THE CADDIES

The caddies of the Nemacolin Country club, 75 in number, were tendered a chicken and waffle dinner at the club house, at noon Saturday. The treat, which was arranged by Mrs. H. Hugh Hill of Charleroi, was given as a tribute to the faithful services rendered by the carriers of the mashes and putters during the past season. The men golfers, who contributed financially toward the dinner, entered into the affair with great enthusiasm and oversubscribed the fund considerably. The proceeds will be placed in a fund toward the entertainment of the caddies next year.

Led by Frank Bruno, caddy master, the caddies marched into the dining room of the club house in double file and did immediate justice to the "spread." Mrs. Hill was assisted in the preparation of the dinner by Mrs. George Edel of Brownsville, Mrs. Mayme Dawson of Charleroi, Mrs. Harry E. Brenizer of Bentleyville, and Mrs. T. H. Thompson of Brownsville. As the caddies left the dining room, each one was presented with an ice cream cone by Mr. Churchman, steward of the club, in appreciation of the good work rendered by the boys.

The caddies extended a unanimous vote of thanks to the women, in particular Mrs. H. H. Hill, and the men golfers who made the affair possible.

Home Lighting Contest Will Open October 1

The school children of Charleroi and vicinity will be this week instructed in first steps of the Home Lighting Essay contest when members of the working committee will visit the various schools and distribute announcement folders and registration cards relative to the contest. "Booster Day" Observed At M. E. Church

"Booster Day" was fittingly observed at the Methodist church yesterday morning when over 150 members of the Men's Bible Classes of Belle Vernon, Monessen, Fayette City, Roscoe, Allentown and Speers, together with the members of the Men's Class of the local church, held their first get-together meeting in the auditorium at 9:45, during the regular Sunday School hour. Thomas L. Pollock, teacher of the local class, gave a very interesting lesson.

The object of "Booster Day" is to stir up more interest among the men in Sunday School attendance. Arrangements have been made by the superintendents of the various schools for monthly visitations of the schools in the valley. On the second Sunday in October all the classes above mentioned will visit the Belle Vernon church, and on the second Sunday of each succeeding month they will visit the other schools until the entire territory has been covered. The Men's class of the local church had 42 men in attendance.

After All-Night Grilling Admits That He Placed Arsenic In His Wife's Coffee—Poison In Water He Gave to Another

PLEA TEMPORARY INSANITY

Wanted to Put His Wife Out of Her Misery—Poisoned Sweet in For the Same Reason—Nothing Between Him And Victim's Pretty Wife

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 22—Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, middle aged pastor of Ina, a village ten miles south of here, confessed today to the poisoning of his wife and Wilford Sweetin, authorities announced.

After an all night grilling, Hight admitted placing arsenic in his wife's coffee. Later he admitted poisoning the water which he gave to Sweetin while he was ill.

Rev. Hight, circuit rider pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, for Ina and for five surrounding towns, said he wanted to put his wife "out of her sufferings," and that he had poisoned Sweetin for the same reason. The minister continued to deny that there was anything between himself and his victim's pretty widow. He attributed the murders to temporary insanity.

Coroner Jesse Reece, who started the investigation following the death of Mrs. Hight, September 12, late Sunday received a telegram from Dr. W. D. McNally, Chicago, announcing that arsenic had been found in the organs of the exhumed body of Sweetin, who died July 28. McNally last week reported the discovery of arsenic in the viscera of Mrs. Hight.

The pastor, arrested last Thursday and held without bond to the grand jury for murder of his wife, was taken to the office of Sheriff Holcomb last night and questioned.

He stoutly maintained his innocence through the night. Just before dawn today State's attorney Thompson adopted a pitying attitude, expressing sympathy for the pastor's church and his family. He urged the pastor to get the guilt off his mind. This line of argument was repeated for more than an hour and then Rev. Hight wrote out a statement witnessed by the officials confessing the murder of his wife.

It followed:
"I hereby make the following confession. This statement is made today before State's attorney Frank Thompson of my own free will and voluntarily regardless of whether or not this may hereafter be used against me.

While grief stricken because of illness of my wife, Anna Hight, I put arsenic in her coffee to relieve her of pain while Mrs. Lucy Laura and my daughter Mildred Hight were in the kitchen of my home at Ina, Illinois on September 10, 1924.

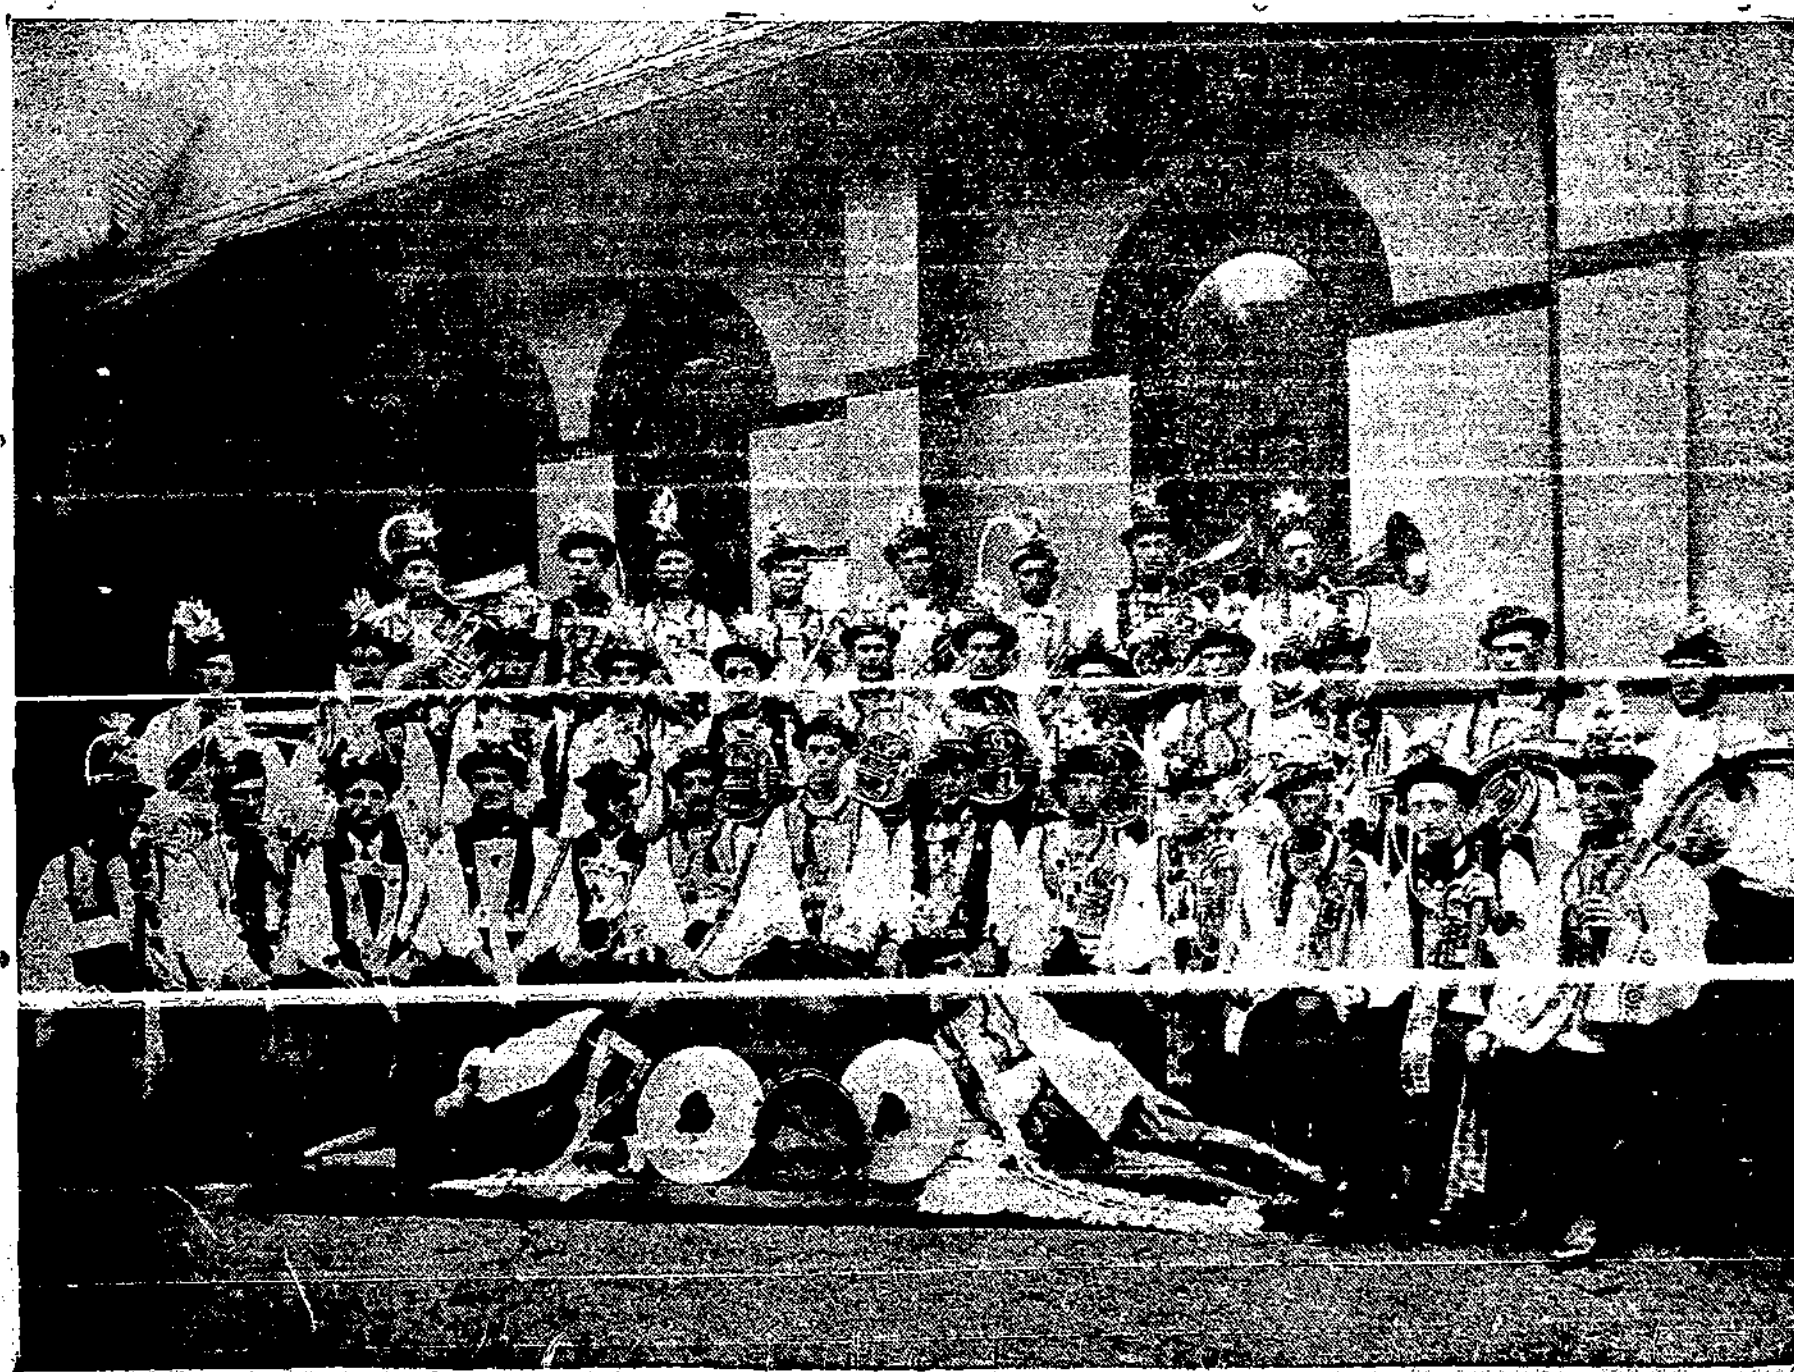

My sole purpose was to ease her of pain in her dying moments.

HEAVY RAINS UPSET SCHEDULE

Mud, tin cans and rubbish in general was washed onto the tracks of the local street car line by the heavy rains this morning playing havoc with the schedule. Cars going into Monessen were delayed while the tracks were being cleared of mud and rubbish near the Victory hotel. On this side of the river the tracks were obstructed near the car barn, holding up the cars for a time. With a force of men on both sides of the river, Superintendent Callihan soon had the cars running on schedule time.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Wilbur Cooper And Walter Johnson Picked To Pitch First World's Series Game Mugsy McGraw's Team Badly Crippled

New York, Sept. 21.—It looks like Pittsburgh and Washington. By this time next week the participants in the world series will probably be known and, unless the dope goes awry, the batteries for the first game in baseball's titular classic will be Johnson and Ruel; Cooper and Smith.

The three game series which opens tomorrow between Pittsburgh and the Giants will in all probability decide the winner of the gonfalon in the National League.

DAZZY VANCE, STRIKE OUT KING

sidered that the Giants dropped four in a row to the Corsairs on their last invasion of the west.

New York, Sept. 21.—Should Pittsburgh win the National League pennant temporary stands will be constructed in right field to accommodate world series crowds at Forbes Field.

According to Dazzy Vance, owner of the Pirates, who today attended the meeting called by Commissioner Hays to make arrangements for the annual diamond classic.

It was arranged that in event of a Pirates victory world series seats at Forbes Field should be placed on sale at the following rates: Box seats, $6; first seven rows, lower stand and entire balcony, $5; remainder of lower stand, $4; right and left field stands, $2, and bleachers, $1.

All the seats will be reserved except the bleachers.

The fact that no Sunday ball is allowed in Pittsburgh was the factor which prompted the moguls to award the first two series games on Saturday, October 4, and Sunday, October 5, to the American League pennant winner. This arrangement insures no lapse in consecutive playing.

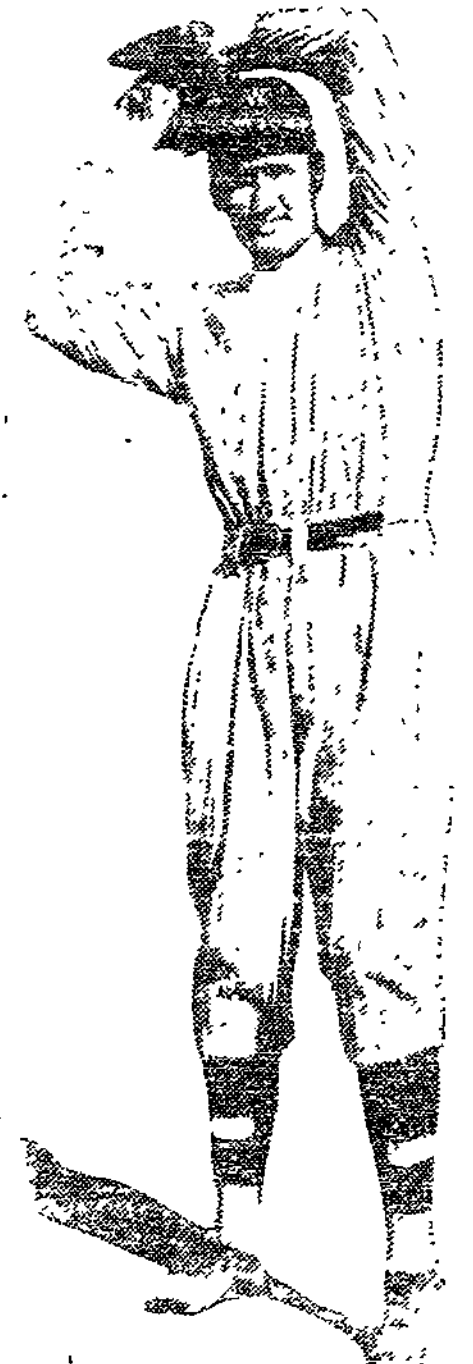

New York, Sept. 21.—Capt. Frankie Frisch, second baseman, and Heinie Groh, third baseman, the bulwarks of the Corsairs' defense and stars on the attack, are out for the remainder of the season, Manager John McGraw announced today.

The news comes like a shock to Giant supporters, for it was the belief that both injured players would be able to get into the lineup for the crucial series which opens against the Pirates Monday afternoon.

Groh was injured sliding into second in the eighth inning of Friday's game against the Cubs and threw out his knee, which has caused him trouble in the past. Groh was hurt at a time when the Giants were well out in front and with nothing at stake. Frisch, however, sustained his injury while trying to score from second on a wild throw. He sprained the third finger of his right hand while diving into the plate and the injury was so serious that Frisch was forced to leave the game. This was the same finger that he had broken a few seasons ago and it did not respond to treatment as rapidly as it was first expected.

ROBINSON SAYS PIRATES GOT BREAKS—COBB WANTS THIRD PLACE

BY WILBERT ROBINSON

Manager of the Brooklyn Robins.

New York, Sept. 22.—It's against my policy to make any predictions because nothing is certain in baseball and right now we have an example in the case of the New York Giants that show what the breaks mean in a close pennant race and how impossible it is to figure on those breaks.

This much I will say—the Brooklyn Club has done exceedingly well in the pennant race considering that we didn't get started until the hat had been passed and that we weren't given a chance by any of the experts before the season started.

Everybody expected us to crack and perhaps we did have a few little lumps but in spite of them we are still in the race and we have the finest chance to win. We couldn't keep up the pace at which we travelled through August and early September because the strain was too great. But when we did get out of that long winning streak we didn't lose any ground.

We have just passed through a hard test with the Pittsburgh Pirates—a great ball club and although we dropped two out of three games we are in the same position we were before the critical series started. I do not desire to take any credit away from the Pirates because it is a fine club, perhaps the fastest in baseball, but I think they will admit that they had some good breaks. We weren't hitting until yesterday when we won the last game of the series.

It was tough to have Vance lose his game but perhaps he will feel relieved now that the tension of that long winning streak has been broken.

We are not sure of the National League pennant, but its quite certain that we haven't given up. The strain has been decreased on the players and fortunately we are all in good condition. Our pitchers are still working well.

It's a hard race to dope and the winner is going to be the team that gets the breaks, or perhaps it should be said the winner will be the team that gets the least of the bad breaks.

BY TY COBB

Manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit, Sept. 22.—I'll just make one guess now and I'll bet that guess is right. The Detroit Tigers will finish third in the American League pennant race. I never said we would win the flag but I had hoped that we would go over. I had intended to devote more of my time to the managing and next year with a young ball club I figured I would not have to play as much.

Injuries to players, as we entered the stretch certainly hurt our chances for the pennant this year. Right at the most critical part of the season, we lost Lu Blue and I don't have to tell anyone who follows baseball and knows Blue's game what it meant to lose the services of such a good first baseman. However I have no complaint about that because I have been in baseball long enough to know that a manager and a club meet the odds breaks with the good ones.

Some of my young pitchers didn't come through as I had hoped they might.

While we may be disappointed by failing to win the championship this year we know that the season has not been wasted. The team is all young. The seasoning the youngsters got in such a hard fight undoubtedly will help us for the going next year. I'm going to play again next year and to bring the flag to Detroit.

I believe the next two days will prove the decisive test for the Yankees and the Senators. I believe my club can lick either one of them in a series. I don't believe the Yankees will take the series from us but I never predict. We'll go through the series fighting and that's all I can say.

Both Huggins and Harris have my best wishes.

Looks Like The DeMarco-Zivic Bout In Pittsburgh Is Off For Good

There are many good reasons why Jack Zivic and Cuddy DeMarco will never meet. Not only does Jack's weight prevent the match, but his suspension as well. A boxer who meets another boxer under suspension in New York is himself automatically barred for a corresponding period. As Manager Mason plans on showing the DeMarco in New York again this winter he would not risk a suspension by permitting his man to box Zivic. When they suspend in New York they certainly rub it in.

It is also conceded by Zivic and his manager, Jimmy Bronson, that the Lawrenceville boy will never be able to make the weight, 135 pounds, again.

Zivic's suspension is also going to make it hard for Matchmaker Johnny McGarvey. Naturally Johnny was planning upon using Jack in a couple of shows this winter, but it is not likely he will be able to do so until after the suspension is lifted. This will not be until after the first of the DeMarco in New York again this year.

Not only is Zivic barred but the entire Bronson stable, including Boo Ryan, Sandy Seifert, Johnny Leonard, Bobby Garcia, Eddie Burnbrook, Jeff Smith and Pete Zivic. All of these men would likely have appeared here this winter.

PIRATES LOSE TO

made a courageous fight against an ancient enemy yesterday in a futile attempt to achieve a clean sweep of the series with the Dodgers. In the ninth inning of the clash that was bitterly fought the Traynor-Maronville combination broke through Burleigh Grimes' desperate pitching for an earned run which tied the battle into a stubborn knot. Overanxiety in the same inning helped the Dodgers out of a bad mess and the home players, cheered by 22,000 supporters who pleaded with them for a tally which would keep them in the pennant race went out and made a run in the tenth. The tally was pushed over on the narrowest of margins. The score was 2 to 1.

ABE MARTIN WINS

HIS GAME YESTERDAY AT CINCINNATI, OHIO

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 21.—The Charleroi Consumers of Pittsburgh met the Bellevue, Ky., nine here today winning the initial tlay with A'be Martin, former Charleroi pitcher, serving up the slants by the score of 3 to 0. In the second fray the Consumers were forced to bow to the when Rex Dawson opposing Zip Wentzel, both spitball artists staged a pretty hurling duel which was won by the Bellevue hurler by the count of 2 to 0.

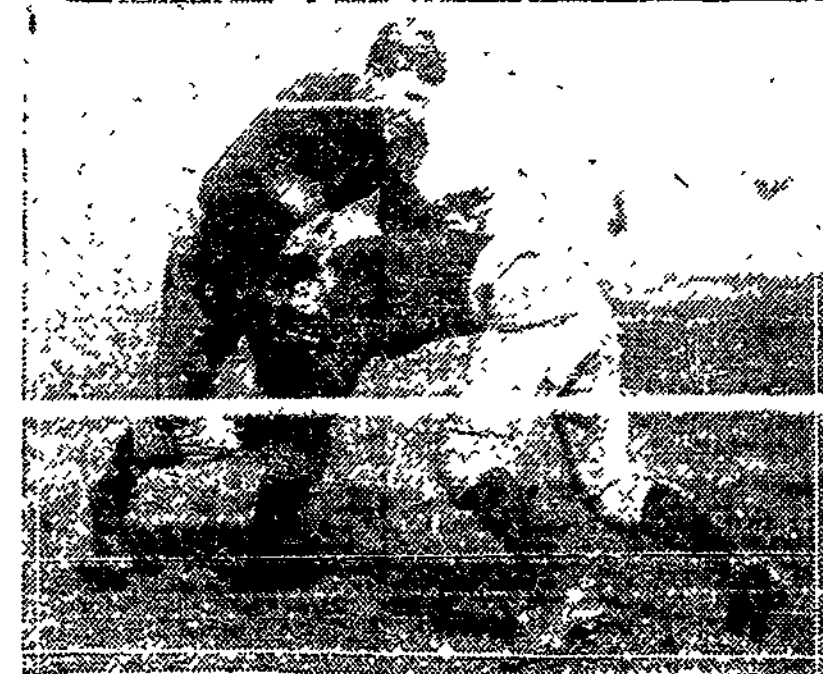

HORNSEY—BEST PLAYER

Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is the opinion of John A. Herdler, President of the National League, is the best player going. In this statement he makes no exception in Babe Ruth, who is classed as a heavy and long hitter, but when it comes to the consistent walling, game after game, it has to be admitted that the Texas lad is a real hitter. Right now his mark is around 420.

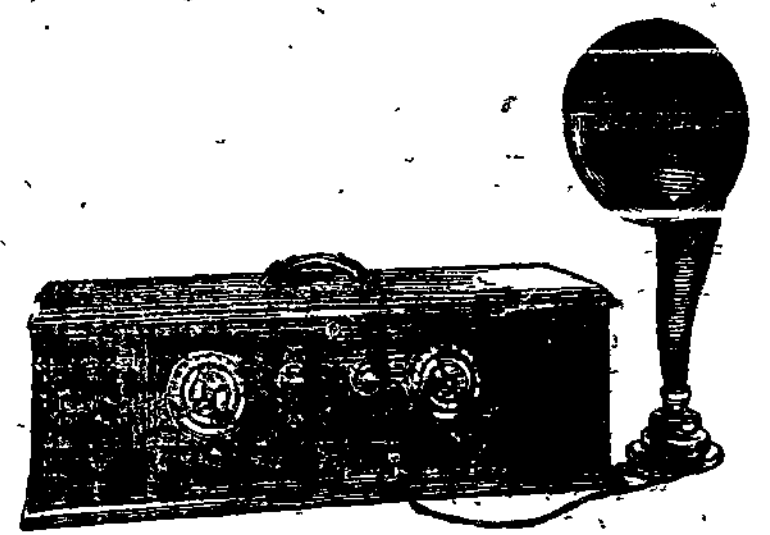

Monopoly Long Held

The mill near Windsor, England, where paper for bank notes has been manufactured since 1724, was founded by a French Huguenot. Before this gentleman, Henri Portal, undertook the making of the paper, bank notes contained no watermark. He introduced one consisting of a looped border running round the outside of the note, and on the left-hand side a somewhat intricate scroll. The family monopoly has existed for 150 years. It was not held without a struggle in the early days, for a document of 1737 tells us that—"There was an opposition at this time by One Judd at Yewell paper mill by which means the Price was lowered 15 p. Ream, and the duty, Felling and carry to London all struck off and to be paid and done by the Maker."

Noted Racer wins $50,000 Bride as Consolation Prize

Red-Headed Beauty to Wed Earl Cooper, Studebaker Pilot, Because He Lost Motor Classic—

Romantic Meeting in Los Angeles Traffic Crash Settles Cooper for Life

RIVERSIDE, CALIF., Sept. 20 (Special)—A red-headed girl, slim and pretty, dabbed a cambric handkerchief to her eyes, when Earl Cooper in his famous Studebaker Special was robbed by hard luck of the $50,000 first prize at the very end of the 300-mile Indianapolis Speedway race, Decoration Day.

And when Cooper, grimy and exhausted, came into the pits, he didn't bemoan that heart-breaking tire trouble. He said to his mechanic, Reeves Dutton:

"I can't get my mind off a red-headed beauty. She was sitting in the grandstand, when we lined up for the start. Kept thinking of her all during that 300 miles. Gosh, I've got to find her!"

And as "consolation prize" for being forced into second place in the 1924 motor classic, Cooper is going to be married here on September 22 to his fair red-headed admirer of the grandstand! Girls, how's that for real-life romance, eh?

Mr. Cooper will be married to Mrs. Jane N. Bailey, 25 years old, of Troy, N. Y., at an elaborate ceremony in the Mission Inn here on Monday, according to an announcement today by the girl's mother, who has taken a town house at 426 South Catalina Street, Los Angeles. Many California notables will attend.

"I looked all over for that red-headed girl after the Indianapolis race," the Studebaker star explained to friends. "But I couldn't find her. And then I went to race in Altoona, Pa., and Kansas City—and still I couldn't get her out of my mind."

Crash! They Meet Again
Ten days ago Cooper was driving west on Seventh Street, near Grand Avenue, Los Angeles. Crash! His wheels locked with those of a shiny grey coupe. A girl leaned out of the window. She was red-headed, pretty—and Irish! Oo, she bawled him out proper.

"Is this the first time you ever drove a car?" she said, biting off the words. "If you hadn't been driving so slow, you wouldn't have hit me. Why don't you take some driving lessons, young man?"

Cooper, race veteran of fourteen years, who has faced death at terrific speed in more than 1,000 grueling contests, grinned sheepishly. And then—suddenly, he caught the glint of sun on anuburn hair. Swiftly he pulled over to the curb. It was his Indianapolis dream girl.

"Excuse me, ma'am," he stuttered. "I'm just learning to drive—won't you teach me, please?"

And he gave her his card. The red-headed girl gasped, looked again at "Earl Cooper, Studebaker Special"—and gazed upon Cooper with hero-worshipping eyes.

She Felt Sorry For Him

"Oh, Mr. Cooper," she cried, with earnest sorrow in her eyes, "it was a shame! You should have won at Indianapolis. I watched you—leading the field for 425 miles—and then to have that tire trouble."

"I know," quietly interrupted Cooper. "I saw you there, in the grandstand. I couldn't think of anything but you, during that race."

And that is why, it was revealed today. Earl Cooper will receive as his "$50,000 consolation prize," the hand of Jane Bailey, feminine racing enthusiast. She felt so sorry for him that she's going to marry him. And Cooper says he's glad he lost that race.

"Funny, how we met in Los Angeles," grinned Cooper, today. "Well, I'd rather take a bawling out before she marries me, than afterward."

Cooper, who is second in this year's competition for A. A. A. "Speed King," drove his Studebaker Special in the Altoona race, September 1, and the Syracuse, N. Y. State Fair, September 13, rushing back here for his wedding. They will motor to New York October 3, and thence to the new Charlotte, N. C., Speedway, where his bride will cheer him to victory at the opening of the 250-mile Dixie speed meet.

"I'm going to be Earl's mascot," she confided.

AMERICAN JAZZ HAS CAUGHT ON IN CHINA

Means Important Trade Development With U. S.

Washington. — Chinese who have been educated in the United States have introduced American jazz music in the Far East, where it is becoming increasingly popular. This is shown in official dispatches from Consul Leroy Webber at Hongkong and Trade Commissioner G. C. Howard at Shanghai.

Because Chinese music differs so radically from that of western people, the developing craze for jazz band music and symphony orchestras means an important trade development, with the United States expected to gain largely in supplying the demand for instruments.

Reports from Mr. Howard show that Shanghai has a symphony orchestra of about fifty pieces, playing Sunday afternoons during winter months in the town hall and at parks several evenings a week during the summer. A brass band of twenty to twenty-five pieces also plays in a park during the summer.

There are some dozen dance orchestras of five to ten pieces using the instruments common in America.

In the case of the symphony, instruments are owned by the musicians. It is a volunteer organization made up of various nationalities. Only a small charge is made for admission to winter recitals, while summer recitals are free.

In dance orchestras the instruments, with the exception of the pianos, are individually owned, and in most cases brought to Shanghai by the owners.

A few colleges have bands, and there is some demand for instruments from various military organizations.

There is a good demand for sheet music in Hongkong, and dealers report improvement in this line during the last few years.

It is estimated that 30 per cent represented dance music and popular songs and the remainder classical, semi-classical and band music.

Imports from the United States have consisted chiefly of dance music and popular songs, while most of the classical music was obtained from continental Europe.

Cowbird Shirks Duty of Raising Its Young

So far as known, cowbirds never build nests. They do not even pair. A general system of concubinage prevails among them. The female cowbird secretly deposits her eggs in the nests of other birds, generally of smaller species such as vireos and field sparrows. In this respect the cowbird resembles the European cuckoo. The young cowbird is reared in the nest of a strange bird. Just as soon as it can fly it leaves the nest of its nurse and seeks the company of other cowbirds which have come into the world in the same disgraceful manner. There are many cases where the young cowbird, which is much the larger bird, crowds the young vireos or sparrows entirely out of the nest. The other birds never detect the deception and go on feeding the young cowbird until it can fly. The cowbird, which is found in the United States, Canada and Mexico, is black in color with a coffee-brown head. It is so called because it is fond of the company of crows. Whole flocks of cowbirds may be seen following the grazing cattle about the pasture.

Overshadowing Genius

"We have persuaded one of the most eloquent of our prominent citizens to deliver a series of lectures on the evening."

"I appreciate the compliment," answered Senator Sorghum. "Only the trouble about an eloquent introduction is that your audience is unable to get enthusiastic and regard the invited speaker as interrupting what might have been a pleasant occasion."

INDUSTRIAL DECENTRALIZA- TION.

What is to be done when our chief cities grow so big that their problems will be beyond the capacity of their officials and living costs will mount beyond the ability of the larger part of congested populations to meet them? Henry Ford, who is interesting when he discusses subjects within his range, contributes to Automotive Industries suggestion in this connection that seems to contain at least the germ of a really practical proposition. "The modern city," he writes, "has done its work and a change is coming. The city has taught us much, but the overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewerage and sanitary systems, the cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people is so great as to offset the benefits of the city."

Already this is to a large extent true of New York and Chicago, perhaps it is pretty nearly true also of Detroit which Mr. Ford's automobile industry has so rapidly built up. But if the great cities "are getting too heavy and are about doomed," as he says, what is to be done? What is the remedy? The thing to do, according to Mr. Ford, is to bring the workers in great part back to the country. "Industry of the future will be organized on a big scale of the country where labor is steady and overhead costs low. Instead of making the man come to the city we take the work out to him in the country. The farm has its dull season, when the farmer can come into the factory, and the factory has its dull season, when the workmen can get out on the land and help produce food." But wherever workers are congregated in great numbers eventually cities will grow up. Nevertheless it looks as if such decentralization of industry is imperatively called for, and during considerable periods of time at least desirable results would seem to be possible.

We read of "a daily $5 award" for the best letter in answer to this question: "If you were a young lady sitting alone at a dinner table in a restaurant and from three tables simultaneously Rudolph Valentino, Jack Dempsey and the Prince of Wales should beckon to you, whose table would you honor?" It seems to have been "quite forgotten that a lady" in the old-time sense could not be "beckoned" by any one of these or other potentates and would allow no man to come to her own table in a public place unless he had been properly introduced. Obviously the Prince of Wales is less likely than the prize ring champion or the movie favorite to be greatly flattered by this extraordinary inquiry.

The American public has been called forgetful and fickle, but nothing in America is so changeable as the upward or downward leaping temperature, particularly between seasons. It is announced from the Treasury Department that the silver dollar is to be returned to circulation because of the expense of keeping paper dollars in condition. Surely such expense can be met by cutting down costs elsewhere. To weight the people down with clumsy "cartwheels" would inflict them with a burden next to intolerable.

The heads of the Society of Mayflower Descendants are said to be worried because the membership has increased 710 in three years and now numbers 5077. Unless the race has long been dying out it is likely that there are several times that number of unknown descendants of the Pilgrims landing from that one small ship.

In an optimistic response to the calamitous predictions of the coming failure of the world's food supply, Prof. G. R. Anderson of the University of Toronto ventures to assert that "Canada alone ultimately can raise sufficient wheat for a billion people, or twice the present population of all the white races."

Things begin to look better in the East. Germany has given the first installment under the Dawes plan and the French at Dortmund have soundly defeated the recessionists.

Lavatory on Auto-Running Board Carries Water and Soap

Added comfort is afforded the motorist by a patented lavatory fitted under the running board of the car to supply water

Great Increase in Farming Lands Is Seen in Next Fifty Years

To feed the 150,000,000 population which it is estimated the United States will contain by 1950, approximately 33,000,000 acres must be added to the present crop-producing lands in this country, government statisticians declare. The extra acreage, it is figured, would suffice for domestic consumption and still leave a surplus for export. An increased yield per acre was taken into consideration in arriving at these figures. There are said to be between 400,000,000 and 600,000,000 acres of potential crop land, of which some 220,000,000 acres lie in the forested regions of the eastern part of the country.

Queer Jobs Undertaken by Women to Make Life Interesting

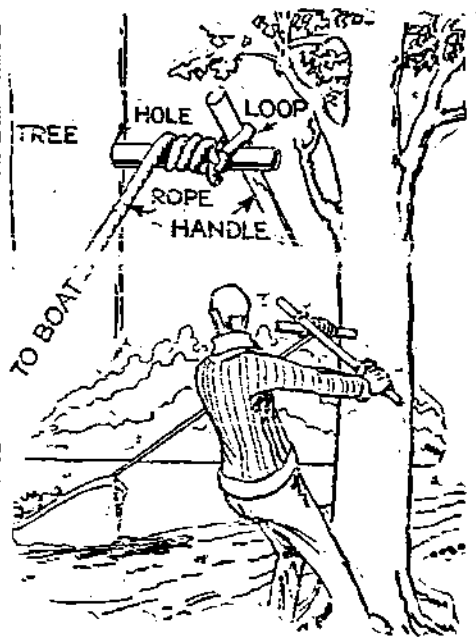

New ways of making life interesting while earning a living are constantly being found by women whose tasks now range from observation and charting of the skies and planets to cooking food and feeding it to swarms of plant germs, which are kept for the purpose of scientific study in laboratories of the government. Although women have practiced law, medicine and dentistry for some time, it has been only in recent years that they were installed in large office buildings as elevator operators, as attendants in automobile filling stations and placed in other departments of industry formerly occupied entirely by men. In research lines connected with the study of natural specimens of insect and small-animal life, women are to be found recording the habits and structure of subjects in many museums. Posters and drawings of value to cattle raisers and dairy farmers are the result of observations made by women trained for the purpose, while horticulturists are aided by women experts who specialize in learning the secrets of developing fruits and vegetables of better qualities. A great number of exhibits to be seen in natural-history museums are the work of women artists, who prepare and set up the specimens composing such groups and design the artistic foliage and landscapes which make up the lifelike backgrounds.

Emergency Tire Patch

One night after discovering a flat tire an autoist removed the casing and inner tube to repair the leak, and then found that he had no cement. Being a long distance from an auto-supply store he faced the necessity of driving along on the rim. But, finding a small roll of electrician's friction tape in the toolbox, he wound several layers of it around the tube and found it held as well as a patch. With this temporary repair, he rode around for two weeks before applying a regular patch.

Pulling Motorboat on Beach

At a summer cottage, where a regular dock is not available and where the only safe method of "docking" a boat for the night is to drag it up on the beach, the usual method of doing this is generally too much for one man; he can easily do it alone, however, by using a simple winch of the kind shown in the drawing. A point on the beach near a large tree is selected as a landing place. A deep hole is drilled into the tree, to receive a length of large pipe or heavy steel rod. If available, a piece of an automobile axle will do. A strong rope is tied to the prow of the boat and a loop is tied at the other end. By slipping a stout piece of lumber, or a crowbar if handy, through the loop and twisting the rope around the pipe as shown, the boat will be slowly pulled up on the beach. Skids under the boat will reduce friction and prevent damage to the bottom of the boat. This method has been used in actual practice and found entirely satisfactory.

MR. MERCHANT:

Have you ever thought of this?

YOU may be entertained by news of the Yanks and the Giants, but you are not vitally interested unless you have money at stake; and the shifting of European boundaries doesn't affect you half so much as the softness of your mattress, the comfort of your shoes, what you ate for breakfast, how much your last hat cost.

That's why advertising news deserves as much attention as sporting or international news. The advertisements keep you informed of all the latest comforts and conveniences that can make your daily living more delightful. They tell where to secure the best, how to save money, how to lessen work, have a better home, better food, better clothes, more luxuries.

You can't keep up with the daily news---the kind that affects you most ---unless you read the advertisements.

They are the chronometers of local time. You'll find it highly profitable to adjust your living by them.

Advertising is the only news that really saves you money--read them all. The wide-awake merchant has his own little story to tell in the Mail advertising columns.

Lasting Cookies

The first batch of cookies I ever made I baked "by ear," writes a correspondent of the Chicago Journal. I thought the idea was to get as much flour into the dough as possible. I did. They were anaemic looking and hard as marbles. A couple of months later I came across a few of them in the cookie jar. I took one of the pale, hard slabs, addressed it to a friend, put a stamp on it and mailed it. My friend's baby cut two teeth on it, broke a window pane with it and it is still a treasure of his toy box.

The Humble Daisy

Children sometimes remove the white petals from daisies and then use the yellow center as pumpkin pies for their dolls' tables. By clipping off the rays to shape a cap and leaving two long ones for strings, with a little ink, a capped grandmother's head and face are made. In literature the daisy has a place second only to the rose. In church lore the daisy is the flower of St. Margaret.

Salesman Had Answer for Silly Old Saying

A salesman in an Iowa town called on a storekeeper who had an old-fashioned store in a splendid location. The salesman was of the creative type and was urging the storekeeper to change his methods, and to adopt new selling ideas.

The reply of the storekeeper was: "Oh, these old methods were good enough for my dad, and I guess they're good enough for me."

The salesman answered, and he could make this answer because of his experience and familiarity with the situation: "Your dad, when he established this store, was the most progressive merchant of his time--" been content with the methods of your grandfather he would never have established any business at all. Your dad, and I knew him well, never refused to consider new ideas; he adopted the things that had proved successful with other merchants. If he were alive today he would be the first one to recognize that the community your store is serving is greatly changed, and that new methods must be adopted to take advantage of new conditions."

Science Poor Second in Light Production

What is the most efficient light in the world?

Some people might vote at once for the "last word" of science in artificial illumination, but they would be wrong. The most efficient light known to us was known in the days of pine torches and rush-lights. It is that with which nature has endowed the glow-worm and the firefly.

Science has so far failed to solve the problem of the production of light without heat--a problem which seems to have given Dame Nature no difficulty. In all artificial light production an enormous amount of energy is lost in the form of heat rays and chemical rays.

Thus a four-watt carbon glow lamp has a luminous efficiency of less than a half per cent, and the most perfect artificial illuminant has an efficiency of only 4 per cent.

Science here compares badly with nature, for the luminous efficiency of the firefly is no less than 99.5 per cent, while the glow-worm's light is 80 times more efficient than a tungsten lamp.

English Bird Sanctuary

On the outskirts of London, and within half an hour's journey from the city, is one of the most beautiful bits of woodland in England. Few Americans, or Londoners either, have ever visited this place, or even know of its existence. It is a bird sanctuary, a veritable land of song, which is carefully fenced and guarded by keepers night and day, and where every kind of British bird lives and nests unharmled. The wood lies in the Brent valley and was bought for London two years ago and established as a permanent memorial to Gilbert White, the author of the "History of Shelborne," by the Shelborne society. The sanctuary, however, has been in existence just 21 years, and in its 10 acres, in the boughs of its many oak trees and the copices of hazel, oaks, willow warblers, bluebirds, goldfinches, nightingales, black caps and many other birds may be seen.

Immense Belt of Air Surrounds the Earth

Man devotes a lot of attention to the air these days. Now that radio concerts are drifting through the air for twenty-four hours a day and modern Magellans are circumnavigating the globe in flying machines, the air has achieved an importance never accorded it in the days when it was employed almost exclusively for breathing purposes. And in view of the new fame it has achieved, it is a coincidence that science has discovered that apparently more air surrounds the earth than ever before was suspected.

A short time ago the Abbe Moreaux, noted French astronomer, announced that scientific tests seemed to indicate that the atmosphere extended about 540 miles beyond the earth's surface. This is more than five times as far as science previously had estimated the atmosphere's height.

The apparent existence of this unknown atmosphere layer was determined by ingenious observations of the aurora borealis. Simultaneous exposure of more than six hundred photographs from different points and subsequent mathematical calculation indicated that the aurora extended its electrical manifestations 540 miles above the earth. It was assumed that these phenomena could not display themselves in empty space, and it was concluded in consequence that there must be some sort of atmosphere 540 miles or more away.---Popular Science Monthly.

Overcrowded China

If the population of the United States and 40,000,000 more were crowded into the state of Texas, the density of the population would be about the same as that of China in the valley of the Yangtze River and the plains between the Yangtze-Kiang and the Honggho. This means an average of 520 persons to the square mile.

It was little Ruth's first visit to the farm. She was watching a meadow lark in an adjoining field and listening to his song. In a little while she entered the house and told her aunt about it. "He wasn't a bit afraid," she said. "He just looked at me and then turned round and sang another verse." —Bridget's Transcript.

After a wedding trip to the Lakes, the young couple will make their home in the Monongahela House, Monessen. Mr. Burnett came to Monessen 13 years ago from Columbus, Indiana and during that time has made for himself a host of friends.

NOVARRO AND TERRY IN INGRAM'S "ARAB"

"The Arab," Rex Ingram's first Metro production since "Scaramouche," will be at the Coyle Theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday. "The Arab" is an exciting story of the love of a Sheikh's son for the daughter of an American missionary; the attempted massacre of the Christians by the governor of the Turkish province; and their rescue by the Arab's own warriors.

Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry have the chief roles, and it is said that both appear to better advantage than ever before. The background and costumes are authentic, since Mr. Ingram took his company to Northern Africa to obtain the real atmosphere.

"The Arab" is based on Edgar Selwyn's famous stage play. It was photographed by John F. Seitz.

There is an old saying, "Straws show which way the wind blows," meaning that a small thing may indicate which way a larger event will turn. A vote, therefore, entirely unofficial and taken by an individual or company, often shows which way an official vote will go.

THREE BILLION DOLLARS MOVED IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 22—Guarded by hundreds of police and secret service men armed with revolvers, rifles, and machine guns, three billion dollars in cash and securities was moved through the streets of New York's financial district to new Federal reserve vaults Sunday. The only casualty was a pigeon crushed beneath the wheels of one of the armored cars carrying the money.

Don't Awaken a Judge.

New York, Sept. 22—"So it was for you that I was awakened at 4 o'clock this morning. Bond will be $25,000." That was Magistrate Brodsky's greeting to Julius Kramer, charged with burglary. Some one had appealed to the magistrate for leniency.

"I Never for the Life of Me."

"I never for the life of me," observed Mrs. Callahan to Mrs. Casey, "could understand about this wireless telegraph thing." "Why?" said Mrs. Casey, "it's as plain as day. They just send the messages through the air instead of over wires." "Sure, I know that," continued Mrs. Callahan; "but how do they listen the air to the poles?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Wall Paper's Effects

Wall paper manufacturers in issuing their aids to housewives and interior decorators have called attention to the wonderful powers of illusion concealed in the design of wall paper. Paper with a small pattern will make the furniture and fixtures of the room look much larger than they actually are, and a large pattern paper will do just the opposite.

Migrate at Night

The majority of birds migrate at night. Some species do so both by day and night, as swans, geese, ducks, night hawks, sparrows, and swifts. The average rate of flight is very much less than men at first believed. The majority of small land birds seldom fly more than 25 miles an hour, and they rarely fly more than a few hours each day.

AUTO COSTS TO BE KEPT

Harrisburg, Sept. 22.—The cost of operating state owned automobiles will be furnished in detail by the department of state and finance as the result of a new accounting plan adopted recently, it was announced.

Each department is required to furnish monthly the cost of operating all vehicles which it controls, according to the announcement of Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of the commonwealth. The new system was installed August 16, and as yet figures are inadequate to show the trend of expense connected with state cars.

Amount of gasoline and oil used each month, tires purchased, repairs, and mileage covered are some of the items about which the budget bureau seeks to learn what the state is spending in this means of travel.

The new figures may show comparisons that will lead to economies in automobile maintenance, it was said. By similar accounting methods, it was held, the cost of tram travel, telephoning and telegraphing was cut by 50 per cent in the light of comparative figures covering a definite period.

A special table of the report will show the average miles per gallon on each car. Some cars may be able to do better than others and if this is true it will show up in the comparisons.

The expense of operating the state's cars as shown by highway department figures in the year ending May 31, 1924, the cost was $987,173 for motor supplies and $280,682 for motor equipment, which came from the motor fund.

DAUGHTERY IS LOOKING ON

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, who came back into the headlines over the week end, sat quietly in his new law office here today watching the excitement.

He received newspaper men cordially but refused to give them a formal statement other than to say that copies of his open letter to John W. Davis and Gaston Means reputation document are true.

"I stand on what I have given out," Daugherty said. He declined to answer questions regarding whereabouts of the original Means document, but friends indicated it was in Washington.

After distributing copies of the letter to Davis and the alleged Means reputation on late Saturday, Daugherty left for Sterling, Ohio, where he spent the week end with friends.

Returning to Columbus this morning he learned that Means in an interview in Washington had denied the reproduction of his testimony, but apparently was not in the least perturbed by this information.

On East Gay street, only a few blocks from Daugherty's Columbus home, is the apartment of Miss Jessie Smith, divorced wife of the late Jesse Smith and herself a prominent witness for the prosecution in the senate investigating of the department of justice.

FIND UNKNOWN RIVER IN NORTHERN ALASKA

Interesting Letter Tells Life in Far North.

Washington, D. C.—The story of an explorer's life in the northern Alaskan wilderness and the discovery of an uncharted stream is contained in a letter brought back to civilization by an Eskimo from the geological survey party headed by Dr. Philip S. Smith and made public by the Interior department. The expedition is exploring naval petroleum reserve No. 4.

In exploring the Colville river, the letter written March 30, states that Doctor Smith found a river about 200 yards wide, which flows westward and then turns northward. The party plans to continue the river explorations, but they must reach the coast in time to catch the last ship out of the Arctic ocean before the September freeze.

The party has established a base camp at the head of the Unalakleet river about ten miles from the divide between the Unalakleet and Colville rivers, at latitude 67°45'30", at an altitude of 2,200 feet. On this divide the party has discovered groves of willow trees as large as a man's wrist, which they are using for fuel.

The letter explained that the supporting party of seven men and 120 dogs turned back on March 10, and the main expedition was proceeding with three sleds and thirty three dogs. The sleds soon will be abandoned, and the journey continued in canoes on the Colville river.

The letter, which was written by Dr. J. B. Mertie, Jr., gives the following description: "During the summer, I have been engaged chiefly in making astronomical observations with the transit. I have seven good observations on latitude and azimuth, which check one another very well."

Able to Find the Time. "Having my azimuth, I also have local time from transits of the sun. And what with watches, and their known ratings, we are in a position to make a fair computation of longitude. I am also able to rate our watches at this camp."

"Such diversion keeps me very busy, and the days pass very quickly. Once in a while, say once a day, when it gets too cold sitting in the tent, I warm up by cutting wood for a half hour or an hour. All of us are well. None of us have been seriously frost-bitten yet, and I think the most severe weather of the winter is past now. So, all in all, everything is going fine, and the success of the expedition seems assured. Just tell that to the doubters."

50,000 ARE GUESTS AT WEDDING AT LEGION CONCLAVE

More than 50,000 persons looked on and the wedding march was played by a 2,700-piece band when Miss Ruth Blanche Masters married Erling Maine, adjutant of the American Legion post at Winnebago, Minn., during the legion's national convention in St. Paul.

Famous the World Over
Epsom, England is in the county of Surrey, 15 miles southwest of London. Epsom was formerly celebrated for a mineral spring from the water of which the well-known Epsom salts were manufactured. A number of the sons of medical men are educated at the Royal Medical college, and adjoining the school is a home for aged physicians or their widows. The principal attraction is the grand race meeting held on the downs, which is attended by hundreds of thousands of persons.

Characters of History
Razi or Ruazes was an Arabian physician who lived from 852 to 932. He is noteworthy as being the first man to describe smallpox and measles in an accurate manner. Hugelard or Hucbald was a Benedictine monk and writer of music. He was born at Tournai, France, about 840. He later started a school of music and other arts at Noyers. He was the inventor of the gamut. The only work positively ascribed to him is the Harmonica institute. He died in 930.

Object Lesson Should Have Impressed Youth

A boy returned from school one day with a report that his scholarship had fallen below the usual average.

"Well," said the father, "you've fallen behind this month, have you?" "Yes, sir."

"How did that happen?" "Don't know, sir."

The father knew, if the son did not. He had observed a number of cheap novels scattered about the house, but had not thought it worth while to say anything until a fitting opportunity should offer itself. A basket of apples stood upon the floor, and he said:

"Empty out those apples, and take the basket and bring it to me half full of chips."

Suspecting nothing, the son obeyed. "And now," he continued, "put those apples back in the basket."

When all the apples were replaced the son said:

"Father, they roll off; I can't put in any more."

"Put them in, I tell you."

"But father, I can't put them in."

"Put them in!" No, of course you can't put them in. Do you expect to fill a basket half full of chips and then fill it with apples? You said you did not know why you fell behind at school. I will tell you. Your mind is like that basket. It will not hold more than so much, and here you have been for the past month filling it up with chip-dirt—cheap novels. —Boston Evening Guardian.

Cruel Human Sacrifices Part of Aztec Religion

In ancient Mexico, the Mexico of the Aztecs, human sacrifices were not only a custom, but practically the only sacrifice offered. But mostly the sacrifices were composed of offenders, law-breakers and enemies. Enemies were generally offered up in preference to victims of their own race.

Another civilization much like the Aztec was the Incas. The Aztecs and the people of the Incas worshipped a sun god much as the Egyptians and the Babylonians, although the moon was a sort of lesser divinity to each, making his counterpart in the Egyptian Isis.

The human sacrifices were unmercifully cruel. The victim was either laid upon a regular sacrificial table and had his heart cut out by a few incisions, or else was put upon an eminence and armed with a blunt wooden sword. He was then attacked successively by men armed with obsidian swords and very sharp. He fought until he was killed. Many evidences of these cruelties have been excavated.

There was another custom, that of a priest praying a person to death. This was believed quite possible. Anyone whom a priest was known as praying to die was certain to die. For the most part they died, killed by terror—Bruce Bryan, in Art and Archeology.

Land Ruled by Insects

After an African trip an English explorer said that on the dark continent the fly was the ruler of man, for one human was constantly battling with it. "Africa," he says, "is but an ant heap. What a land of insects! What a power they wield!" This is the sort of country it is: "We journeyed down to the valley, starting early to miss the heat of the day, black and white men, armed with fly-switches, each with an ear attuned to the buzz of the tsetse fly behind him. In six days we reached the Luangwa river. It was a wild spot where the canoe awaited Mr. Barnes and his fellow travelers. The banks were lined with great mahogany trees, raffia palms and hanging monkey ropes. Brilliant birds and butterflies were there. 'Elephants came there nightly to drink,' says Mr. Barnes. 'Hippopotamuses swam in the pools. The broad river alone was all that was left of the land behind us.'
